

Dr. Arttu Luukanen (native of Finland) is currently working as a guest researcher at NIST. Dr. Luukanen earned his Ph.D. from the University of Jyväskylä, in Finland in 2003. His home institute in Finland is VTT Technical Research Center of Finland, where his research has focused on the development of cryogenic X-ray and submillimeter wave thermal detectors and their read-out circuits.