

Influence of Information Theory on the PTM Wireless Architecture Standard

Dr. Ron McCallister, SiCOM, Inc.

Information-theoretical bounds relate performance directly to several key design parameters associated with point-to-multipoint (PMP) wireless links. This paper identifies several such bounds, addresses their impact on PMP performance and architectures, and discusses their relevance to the process of adopting open PMP standards.