

Spectrum Policy Challenges for Industry and Policymakers

Diane Cornell

Vice President for Regulatory Policy, Cellular Telecommunications &
Internet Association

There has been an increased focus on the importance of spectrum management reform in recent months, and policymakers are seeking new ways to promote more efficient spectrum management, while at the same time promoting innovation and investment. This session will highlight some of the challenging policy and regulatory issues facing the mobile wireless industry and policymakers as they struggle to keep pace with rapidly changing wireless technologies.