

Biographical sketch

Martin Nilsson received the M.Sc.E.E. degree from the Royal Institute of Technology, Stockholm, Sweden in 1997. Since then he has been with Allgon System AB, Täby, Sweden, working with research and development of base station antennas. His current research interests include polarization diversity and channel modeling.